

docker --version docker pull ubuntu

docker run -it -d ubuntu docker ps

docker ps -a docker exec -it <container id> bash exit

docker stop <container id> docker pull nadav42/minesweeper;rt

This command is used to get the currently installed version of d This command is used to pull images from the docker repository docker run -it -d <image name> This command is used to create a container from an image

This command is used to list the running containers

This command is used to show all the running and exited containers

This command is used to access the running container

This command stops a running container

This command kills the container by stopping its execution imme locker

y(hub.docker.com) diately. The difference between 'docker kill' and 'docker stop' is that 'docker stop' gives the container time to s

Shutdown gracefully, in situations when it is taking too much time for getting the container to stop, one can opt t

.o kill it